Dear Tyler,

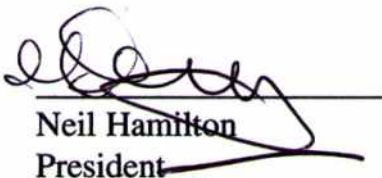

I wanted to thank you for all the work you and your staff completed for our company. As a result of the strategies you developed and subsequent materials DOMINION produced, we have successfully raised the investment capital we required.

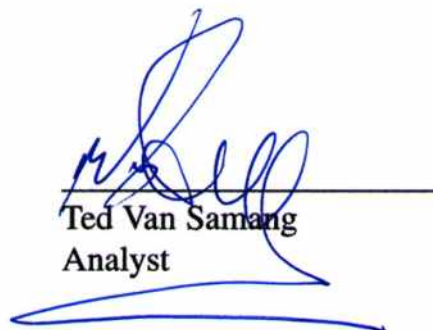

I strongly support your theory that marketing to investors is distinctly different and requires specific expertise. Until now it has been very difficult to source consultants in your area of expertise: "Investment Marketing". The consulting and graphic design fees we have paid DOMINION we have recouped many times over through new capital investments. We could not have asked for any better results.

For any private company looking to go public or an existing public company looking for marketing expertise to raise investment dollars I can recommend DOMINION — without hesitation.

We are looking forward to your recommendations for our expansion into the US markets and the results we are confident we will achieve.

Yours truly,

Neil Hamilton
